OBITUARY.

On Monday night, at ten o'clock, after an illness of several weeks, Mrs. W. A. Hill, Sr., departed this life, in the 67th year of her age. Mrs. Hill was formerly Miss Rebecca Hite, and was the daughter of Wm. and Amelia Hite two old and respected citizens of Paris, who have long since passed to the great beyond. Forty-three years ago she married Mr. W. A. Hill, of Marietta Ohio, and has been a loving and faithful wife to him during the years that have intervened. Hill, Jr., Edgar Hill Mrs. Maude Barbour, (Louisville) Charles R. Hill, Misses Gertrude and Mable Hill. Mrs. Hill was a devout Christian and a devoted mother. Her one great happiness in life seemed to be the comfort and happiness of her husband and children, and the greatest comfort to her in her last hours was that they were all with her. Mrs. Hill was a sister of John W. Hite, recently deceased and also of Mrs. Charles Reickle, of Cynthiana, and Miss Mattie Hite, of this city, who survive her. The funeral services were conducted Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the Christian Church, by Elders Lloyd Darsie and J. S. Sweeney. Burial at the Paris Cemetery. The pall-bearers were: B. C. Ingles, J. J. McClintock, H. C. Hutchcraft, J. H. Haggard, W. H. Ingles and Dr. J. W. Jameson. To the sorrowing family a host of friends in Paris extend their warmest sympathy.

Mr. John Simms, aged 82, died at his home in Springfield, last week. He was the father of Mrs. J. I. Wimsatt, formerly of this city.

John Brand, aged eighty six, died of paralysis in Scott county, and was buried in the Paris cemetery, Wednesday, with services at the grave by Rev. E. A. Pierce. He was for many years a resident of this county, living on the Little Rock pike, near this city.

STAGE STORIES.

Amusement Announcements, Lobby Chat ter—Odd Bits of Gossip.

The happy, satirical farce comedy, Hoyt's "A Texas Steer," will be given at the opera house to-night by practically the original company that made the piece one of the greatest theatrical successes of the past decade. In "A Texas Steer" the misery of the life of office-seekers as told by a colored applicant from the newly elected Congressman's district is considered one of the cleverest hits that has graced the stage in many years. Hoyt's faculty of going from sublime to the ridiculous in dialogue and situation is as amusing as it is amusing and entertaining, and more truisms are brought out in his productions than in the work of any other American playwright. "A Texas Steer" ought to prove an immense attraction here.

CHAINED TO A STAKE.

Fred Alexander Burned Alive by a Mob at Leavenworth, Kan.

The Victim, Who Was Charged With Assaulting a Girl and the Murder of Pearl Forbes, Died Protesting His Innocence.

Leavenworth, Kan., Jan. 16.—Fred Alexander, the Negro, who Saturday evening attempted to assault Miss Eva Roth, and who was supposed to have assaulted and killed Pearl Forbes in this city in November last, was Tuesday afternoon taken from the sheriff's guard and burned at the stake at the scene of his crimes, half a dozen blocks from the center of the city. Probably 8,000 people witnessed the lynching.

At 5:15 o'clock Alexander was brought to the scene of the murder of Pearl Forbes, at the corner of Lawrence avenue and Spruce street. The exact spot where the murdered girl was found was located by the leaders of the crowd, and there a semicircle was formed. Alexander was brought up in a wagon with a dozen men. The wagon was stopped in front of the ravine, and surrounded by the crowd, the leader of the men who held Alexander called for silence. The roar ceased and Alexander was shoved forward for the crowd to gaze at. A howl went up which was quickly hushed as the prisoner raised his shackled hands and began to speak. Twice he started, and the crowd drowned his trembling voice.

"You are going to kill me, whatever I say," he said, "but you men are wrong. I want to tell you right now you've got the wrong man. I did not do that, and some day you men will run up against the man who did. I know it ain't any use to say so, for you're going to kill me, but I did not do it."

The men standing behind him shoved him from the wagon, and the roar from the wagon drowned every other sound. The Negro was quickly driven down the embankment to the pile of wood, with his hands shackled. The first thing done was to plant the railroad iron upright in the mud. This was made fast to cross irons firmly bound to the upright iron with wire. Around the improvised stake wood and boards were piled. To this the man was dragged and chained in a standing position to the upright railroad iron. Coal oil was then poured over him and the match touched to him.

As the flames leaped about him Alexander turned ghastly pale and for the first time realized that death was near. He clasped his hands together and began to swing to and fro, while the crowd yelled.

In less than five minutes he was hanging limp and lifeless by the chains that bound him. As soon as the crowd saw that life was extinct it began slowly to disperse. There were hundreds of the morbid, however, who stayed to the last.

Men kept piling on wood all the time until about 7 o'clock, when the flames were allowed to die down. From 5 to 8 o'clock there was a continuous stream of people going to the scene of the burning. These were persons who had been unable to get away from their work in the afternoon, but were determined not to miss seeing the awful spectacle.

The remains were viewed by thousands, and up to the time they were taken away the carriages and vehicles were continually passing by the spot. No expressions of regret or pity are heard from any source.

Topeka, Kan., Jan. 16.—Gov. Stanley, Tuesday night announced that he would offer a reward of $500 for the apprehension of any one implicated in the lynching of Alexander at Leavenworth. The governor further stated that he was sorry that he could not offer a larger reward, but the law allows him to offer only $500. He said that he was also going to instruct the attorney general at once to investigate the conduct of Sheriff Everhardy in connection with the lynching, and if it was found that the sheriff had in any way violated his trust as an official, proceedings would be instituted to oust him from office.

BUILDING BLOWN UP.

Rioters Terrorize the Town of Corbin—One Dead, One Fatally Wounded and Others Missing.

Corbin, Ky., Jan. 17.—Intense excitement prevailed in Corbin Wednesday night. About 1 o'clock Wednesday afternoon James Shotwell and Rollie White met in front of Hagan's drug store and began quarreling. Few words were spoken when White drew a pistol and fired three shots into the body of Shotwell. Shotwell was carried to his room, and is not expected to survive more than a few hours. White took refuge in his brother's grocery, and submitted to arrest. A guard was placed over him, awaiting the arrival of the county sheriff.

John Shotwell, a son of the dying man, was in Williamsburg attending circuit court. A hasty summons brought him to Corbin at 4 o'clock. He at once swore vengeance on his father's murderer.

At 6:30 a terrific explosion occurred under the grocery of E. R. White, where his brother was being guarded. So severe was the shock that it tore the building literally to pieces.

There were about a dozen persons in the building at the time. Several escaped with slight injuries, while several remain in the debris. No one at this time can say how many are killed.

One old man in trying to extinguish the blaze, declares that he took hold of a corpse. Susan Cox, a well-known character, was found dead between the wrecked building and William Harp's residence. It is supposed she was taken refuge there, and was hit by a stray ball.

Immediately after the explosion rapid firing in the neighborhood began by unknown parties, who were concealed. About 9 o'clock more shooting took place, the results of which can not be learned.

Citizens are afraid to visit the rioting districts. It was thought that the morning will find three or four persons dead.

The trouble between Shotwell and White grew out of the fact that White had been paying attentions to Shotwell's daughter, much against the will of the entire Shotwell family.

Wednesday afternoon when the two met Shotwell told White he must not visit his house again, as he did not wish such a man in his family. From this the quarrel began. Shotwell is about 50 years of age and a well-respected citizen. White is a young man about 22 years old.

DEATH OF GOV. MOUNT.

Died Suddenly at His Apartments After Returning From a Walk.

A Few Minutes Later He Said to His Wife: "I Am Sick; It's My Heart. Send For a Doctor at Once."

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 17.—James A. Mount, who retired Monday at noon from the office of governor of the state of Indiana, died very suddenly at 6:45 o'clock Wednesday night in his apartments at the Denison hotel.

He had attended a reception tendered by Mrs. Mount to a number of prominent ladies of the city during the afternoon, and shortly after the guests departed he started out for a walk. Upon his return he said nothing about being ill, and after removing his hat and overcoat sat down to read. In a few minutes he turned to his wife and niece, who were in the room, and said: "I am sick; it's my heart. Send for a doctor at once."

After taking off his collar and tie and assisting her husband to reach his bed, Mrs. Mount went out into the corridor, where she met Senator and Mrs. Charles C. Binkley, of Richmond. She was wringing her hands, and said: "Mr. Mount is very ill. Please get a doctor as quickly as possible."

JAMES A. MOUNT.

sible." Dr. O. S. Rummels was called, and found those in attendance at Mr. Mount's bedside chafing his feet and hands in an effort to revive him. He knelt down and listened for a heartbeat, and, rising on his feet, said: "You can do nothing more for him; he is dead."

In the lobby of the Denison at the time of the announcement of the death were gathered a number of prominent politicians of the state, and at once many kindly offers of assistance were sent to Mrs. Mount.

During the forenoon Mr. Mount visited the office of his former private secretary and was in consultation with him for several hours. In the afternoon he made a speech before the Indiana State Wool Growers' association and was elected president of the association.

Word was at once sent to Gov. Durbin, who was at Anderson, and instructions were issued at once ordering the issuing of a proclamation. Three children besides Mrs. Mount are the surviving members of the family. The eldest child is Mrs. Chas. Butler, who lives on a farm in Montgomery county adjoining that of her father. Mrs. John W. Nicely, who is now at Beirut, Syria, and Rev. Harry M. Mount, pastor of the Presbyterian church at Connorsville, are the other children.

During his term of office Gov. Mount was attacked several times by fainting spells but none of them was serious. Col. Wilson, who was in the office with him during his term of office, said Wednesday night:

"Gov. Mount was worked to death. His close application to the duties of his office impaired his health, and until some of the burden is removed from the shoulders of the governors of Indiana the exaction of the office will kill anybody."

Sketch of His Life.

James Atwell Mount, ex-governor of Indiana, was a native of the state, having been born in Montgomery county, March 22, 1833. His father, Atwell Mount, was a native of Virginia, and moved to Indiana in 1828. Ex-Gov. Mount was one of 12 children. His parents were poor and the family led a life of pioneer simplicity.

At the breaking out of the civil war he enlisted in the 72d regiment, Indiana volunteers, and later was a member of the renowned Wilder brigade. At the close of the war he settled on a farm in Montgomery county, Indiana, was married to Miss Kate A. Boyd in 1867.

Gov. Mount was a republican and one of the most distinguished men of the party in the state. His statesmanship in purpose was practical.

Several times he proved himself a popular candidate. In 1888, in a democratic district, he was elected state senator by a majority of 600 votes, and in 1888 he was elected governor by the largest plurality ever given in Indiana to a candidate for governor or president.

Besides Mrs. Mount, three children survive him, Rev. Harry M. Mount, a Presbyterian minister, and Mrs. Helen Mount, now in Beirut, Syria, and Mrs. Chas. E. Butler, living on the Mount homestead in Montgomery county, this state.

CROSSED THE VAA.

Gen. DeWet Has Joined Forces, With the Transvaal Commandos—Another Attack Expected.

London, Jan. 17.—The important report, received from Johannesburg that Gen. DeWet has crossed the Vaal and joined forces with the Transvaal commandos, if true, probably means the concentration of 7,000 Boers, with several guns, for another big attack.

There is a rumor current in Cape Town that several Boer leaders are urging an attack upon the mines. It has been long understood that Gen. DeWet has been anxious to join the invaders in Cape Colony and this rumor may be spread to cover an attempt to break southward.

As an outcome of the fact that the Boers in several instances have worn khaki, a government notice has been promulgated in Pretoria prohibiting civilians from wearing khaki and notifying all persons who wear this costume, which is likely to be mistaken for the British uniform, that they will render themselves liable to arrest and imprisonment.

The war office issued no fresh news Wednesday.

The response to the government's call for volunteers is said to be very brisk in both London and the provinces. Defensive measures in South Africa proceed apace. Seven thousand men have joined the city guard in Cape Town and 3,000 others have volunteered in the suburbs.

STATE BANK WRECKED.

When Cashier Harpster's Crookedness Was Discovered He Blew Out His Brains.

St. Joseph, Mo., Jan. 17.—The state bank of Wathena, Kan., has been wrecked by Cashier Jacob F. Harpster, who, when his use of the bank's funds was discovered Wednesday, blew out his brains. He had been using the funds of the bank in mining and other speculations that have turned out disastrously. Late Wednesday afternoon, when the state bank commissioner, John Breidenthal, appeared to inspect the books of the bank, Harpster endeavored to conceal the true state of affairs. He failed, and, entering an undertaking establishment, shot himself in the head. The crookedness of the cashier was a complete surprise to the other officers and stockholders of the bank. The exact losses are unknown, but $16,000 is known to have been absorbed in one mining venture. Business at Wathena is practically paralyzed.

THIRTY-SIXTH REGIMENT.

The Soldiers Will Sail on the Transport Pennsylvania For San Francisco on January 25.

Some of the men will join the new Manila police under the provost marshal, Gen. J. Franklin Bell, the original colonel of the 36th regiment. The United States transport Indiana will sail for San Francisco with sick soldiers on the return of the hospital ship Relief from Aparri.

THE ISLAND OF PANAY.

Delgado, the Commander-in-Chief of Iloilo, Surrenders.

This Signifies an End to Organized Armed Resistance in That Territory—The News Gives Satisfaction in Washington.

Washington, Jan. 15.—Gen. MacArthur reports the surrender of Delgado, commander-in-chief of Iloilo province, Panay. He also reports that other important surrenders are expected during the next few days. Gen. MacArthur's cablegram to the war department is as follows:

"Delgado, commander-in-chief of Iloilo province, Panay, surrendered on January 11 to Brig. Gen. Robert P. Hughes, with four officers, 21 men and 14 rifles. His command is much scattered. Other surrenders are expected during the next few days; important; signifies the end of organized armed resistance in Iloilo province, Panay."

The dispatch gave much satisfaction to the war department, although the command surrendered by Delgado is not a large one. It also was noted by the officials that the assurances were for the end of "organized armed resistance," indicating that there was considerable of the unorganized marauding still in progress.

Washington, Jan. 15.—Gen. Greely, chief signal officer, U. S. A., has received a dispatch from Lieut. Col. James Allen, in the Philippines, announcing that the signal corps has laid cables from Oslob, island of Cebu, to Duanagete, island of Negros, and thence to Misamis and Lintago, island of Mindanao.

This extension of the military telegraph system connects for the first time the large and important island of Mindanao with Manila and the rest of the world. Heretofore, in some instances, three weeks would elapse before the officials at Manila would hear of an engagement that had taken place in Mindanao, but the newly laid cable will put Manila in direct and quick communication with this lower island.

It is hoped that the extension of the cables from Tukuran to the Jolo group, by way of Zamboanga, will be completed within the next month.

Col. Allen reports that in November, the last month for which complete data has been received, more than 300,000 military messages were transmitted over the military telegraph lines of the archipelago.

MILLIONAIRE'S WEDDING.

Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt, United in Marriage to Miss Elsie French at Newport, R. I.

Newport, R. I., Jan. 15.—Miss Elsie French was united in marriage at noon Monday to Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt, the ceremony taking place in the Zabriskie Memorial Church of St. John the Evangelist. The bride is a daughter of Mrs. Francis Ormound French and is related to a number of the leading families of New York. The bridegroom is the second son of the late Cornelius Vanderbilt, from whom he inherited the bulk of the millions.

Just as the lines of the Lohengrin march breathed softly forth the two clergymen, Rev. George F. Beatty, rector of the church, and Rev. G. Brinley Morgan, rector of Christ church at New Haven, entered from the side door, followed by the bridegroom and his brother, Reginald Vanderbilt, the best man.

At the same time the bridal procession started up the main aisle, the ushers leading, followed by the four bridesmaids.

Eight personal friends of the bridegroom acted as ushers. They were Messrs. Worthington Fitzhugh Whitehouse, Frederick Martin Davies, Robert Livingston Gerry, Ord Preston, Ernest Iselin, Wm. P. Borden, Potter Palmer, Jr., and W. Bayard Cutting, Jr.

The bridesmaids were Miss Pauline French, the bride's niece; Miss Elsa Bronson, daughter of the late Frederick Bronson; Miss Isabel C. Stillman, daughter of Mr. James Stillman, of New York, who shortly will become the bride of Percy Avery Rockefeller, and Miss Edith Gray, daughter of Judge Gray, of Albany.

This was a love match pure and simple, for the bride and bridegroom have been fast friends since they were childish playmates.

The estimated cost of the wedding is $254,000, including $200,000 worth of wedding presents. The bride's trousseau cost $15,000 and the wedding dress $5,000.

PERVERSITY.

My father frowns, my mother sighs,
My grandam, with begoggled eyes,
Reclines me maxims, wondrous wise,
On prudence and gentility.
They all of Lydia love to prate;
As my one matrimonial fate;
Her virgin charms they celebrate
With ceaseless volubility.

Of how she shines in equal ways
At French or German—sings and plays.
Embroiders, paints—for days and days.
Eulogiums do I hear anew.
And then her parents' wealth galore,
Their steeds and coaches by the score,
Their Newport villa—nay, still more,
Their palace on Fifth avenue.

But ah, in vain my kindred plead!
The girl I love, the girl I need!
The girl I'll dare to wed, indeed,
Unmoved by all caste's mummeries,
Is but a sempstress, young and shy,
Whose glittering needle—what know I?
Its dexterous art may sometimes ply
On Lydia's cobweb mummeries.

With Phyllis in her Harlem flat (Shabby, and five floors high at that)
I'd rather spend an hour of chat
Than dance till dawn in Lydia's thrall.
And watch her smile's coy trickeries,
Than dance till dawn in Lydia's thrall.
At some Delmonicoan ball.
Though light along the floor should fall
Her footstep as she dances!

"What is the matter?" asked Mrs. Nolan.

"Matter enough," answered Mrs. Goddard, clenching her hands and grating her teeth together. "Matter enough. He has married the girl, but has already—already fallen in love with her, and now he wants to throw me over."

"Didn't you expect that?" asked Mrs. Nolan, whose innate dislike for her mistress often fostered opposition to her plans.

"It was the last thing I did expect—the very last."

"Your egotism has undone you, Jeanne," said Mrs. Nolan with no little cautious unction. "I had no sooner laid my eyes on that beautiful young creature than I knew if he ever was in love with her once he would be again."

"For mercy's sake, dry up!" commanded the furious woman. "This is no time for you to lecture me. Do you know that we shall be stranded here without money enough to keep us? Do you know that he defies me to expose the matter and that he swears I shall never touch the girl's money?"

"Not after her death?" asked Mrs. Nolan, her own face growing suddenly grave.

"Death, your idiot? The girl is as sound as a dollar."

"I thought you said—"

"It makes no difference what I said," broke in Mrs. Goddard. "She'll never die till I get back to America, and—"

Mrs. Nolan caught the excited woman by her shoulders and forced her to look at her.

"Do you mean that—that you intend to commit murder, Jeanne?"

"If he did not give me the greater part of the girl's money—yes," was the sullen answer.

"Well, you must not draw me into that, Jeanne!"

"I shall draw you into nothing, but I shall expect you to hold your tongue."

"Would he hold his if—if you resorted to—if you killed her?" asked Mrs. Nolan in a low, quivering voice.

They had now returned to the little sitting-room in the cottage. Mrs. Goddard was looking through a box of writing-paper, with nervous, fumbling fingers. Mrs. Nolan stood over her and ventured cautiously to repeat her question.

Mrs. Goddard hesitated as she found a telegraph blank, and dipped a pen.

"He'd have to, or be implicated with me—in the whole business," she answered, doggedly. "If she died suddenly or was shot, the law of self-preservation would be too strong for him."

"And what then?" Mrs. Nolan asked scarcely to breathe.

"Then I could win him back to me—if I wanted him."

"Are you sure?"

"With her out of the way, yes."

There was a dead silence in the room. The outer circle of the underground railway ran beneath the garden, and a passing train shook the room like an earthquake.

"What are you going to do now?" asked Mrs. Nolan, curiously, eyeing the telegraph blank.

Mrs. Goddard was writing, and when she had finished and laid down her pen she held the sheet to her companion. It was addressed to Maj. Rowland Goddard, Lyndhurst-on-the-Hudson, N. Y., U. S. A. The message was but a single word and no signature went with it. The word was: "America."

"It will pass most eyes as a word from some telegraphic code," said Mrs. Goddard; "but the major will understand it in full. Now, Lucy, we must pack. We are going back on the first steamer. I shall run out and send this and inquire about the passage. Go to work. We have no time to lose."

"But what if you were recognized on the steamer going over?" faltered Mrs. Nolan.

"There is no likelihood of that. I know a few people."

"But Henry Dugdale is in New York."

"He may not be now; but we have to run even that risk. We are playing a big game, Lucy."

"You mean you are," said Mrs. Nolan.

"I shall never take a hand in the other."

"I shall not ask you to," answered Mrs. Goddard. She put on her cloak and hastened away down the road to the telegraph station.

CHAPTER XIV.

The major happened to be alone when that telegram reached him. Seeing that it was foreign, he let it lie unopened on his desk till the servant had gone, then with many misgivings as to its import he opened it. That single word conveyed more to his disturbed consciousness of impending disaster than a dozen bold threats could have done. He told himself that Jeanne had had just sufficient time to have received his letter, and that she was on her way home.

But what could she be coming back for—running such great risks of detection? Perhaps it was that she might confront Blanche suddenly and cause the girl's death from the shock of the true situation. Perhaps—Goddard put the telegram into the fire and watched it burn. A big lump of despair was in his throat. At that moment, if, by a death of long lingering torture, he could have purchased Blanche's happiness he would have submitted without a murmur. The better side of his nature was now uppermost and he had become actually a strong man. Suddenly he wondered if he might not with a round sum of money buy Jeanne off from her evident murderous plans, but Blanche's means were not to be thought of. Hearing the clicking of Talley's typewriting machine, and fired with a certain resolve, he crossed the hall and entered the study.

"Talley," said he, "have you still faith in that stock?"

"More than ever, major," said Talley, with a smile. "I wish I had more money to invest in it."

Goddard sat down near the young man.

"Talley, I need money awfully. By placing a mortgage on all my effects I could raise a hundred thousand. If I go into this deal it will be to lose all or win heavily. I am half a mind to plunge. What do you think?"

The young man raised his eyes slowly.

"But surely you are not so far gone as that," he ventured. "I think you said Mrs. Goddard's fortune was in good shape."

"It is in the best condition," said the major, firmly; "but I should never draw one penny of it for my own use. I wouldn't touch it to save my life."

"Oh, pardon me," said Talley, admiringly. "I understand that, major. As to the G. N. & W., of course I have boundless faith in it, but don't want to be the cause of your running such a big risk as to put all you have in it."

"Well, I am going to do it," answered Goddard. "And I want you to go right away into Wall street and see Thornton & Wilde. Tell them I agree to the mortgage we were speaking about, get their check and then go at once to Wilson & Burnham and secure the stock they offered me yesterday."

Talley drew himself up and took a deep breath.

"I am almost sorry that I mentioned it to you, major. For God's sake don't be hasty!"

"I am glad you called my attention to it," returned the major. "It is lost all or win all with me. I am willing to take the risk."

Half an hour later the major met Blanche in the long glass-roofed conservatory. She held a small watering-pot and was sprinkling some rare roses. As he came in she put down the pot and kissed him.

"Isn't the perfume in here delicious?" she exclaimed. "I feel as if I were eating it like an impalpable ice made for the delectation of the gods."

"Why did you not go to see Dr. Fleming, as you promised?" Goddard asked, as he stroked her beautiful hair, which hung loose down her back, after the manner she had worn it during her school days.

"Because he won't be in New York till Thursday," she laughed. "I really feel as if I am going to survive till then. I noticed in the Herald that he has again been delayed a few days. I assure you I shall go then."

They turned and walked from the conservatory into the drawing-room.

"There is one other matter I have been wanting to speak to you about, dear," he said.

"Well, what is it, guardian?" she asked, with a smile.

"Human life is very uncertain, dear," he said. "The longer I live the more I am convinced that we ought to make every preparation for the future. You know you have a considerable fortune. In case of your death—and you are as apt to die as I or anyone else—in case of your death you ought to leave a will. Now, you have an aunt and cousins—"

Blanche put her white hand over his mouth and looked up into his face gravely.

"Dear, dear guardian, what is the matter with you? Why are you constantly talking about my health, and now it has actually come to uneasiness about my will. If I should die and anyone—anyone but you should get my money I should not rest in my grave. I am thoroughly in earnest."

His features were set with disappointment.

"But, dear little girl, that is exactly what I want to avoid. I must not—in case of your death, mind, I say, in case of such an unexpected thing as your death—I must not profit by it financially."

"And why?"

"Simply because I cannot have it so," he answered, vaguely. "I cannot. You must make a will, Blanche, and leave your fortune to your aunt and cousins."

"But I shall never do such an absurd thing," said Blanche, with firmness; "never!"

"Not if I beg you to—not if my peace of mind and satisfaction depend on it?"

"No, not even then, for if I had willed my money to people I do not love and not to you I should never be happy again. No, you must not ask that."

"But—"

"Please stop, dear; you make me feel so unhappy." Her lower lip was quivering and he saw her eyes fill. He drew her into his arms and tried to comfort her. Her agony was too deep for utterance.

Presently she looked up, and with a hand on each side of his face she gazed at him from her big candid eyes. Her features were set, as if with an unpleasant thought.

"Don't—don't keep a thing from me, darling," she said, using that term of endearment for the first time. "Something is wrong. What is it? Is it more financial difficulties? If so, use all I have in the world if you wish. I would be happy with you on bread and water."

"It is not that," he declared, breathing rapidly.

"Well, what is it?"

"Nothing that you can help," he sighed, and he left her where she stood at the window.

The threat contained in that cabled message from London hung over him like a weight suspended by the hand of destiny. That the woman he had once blindly worshipped would be guilty of deliberate murder he did not doubt, and as the time which Jeanne would take to recross the ocean went by his fears increased until his waking and sleeping thoughts contained but one mental picture, and that was the sudden meeting between the two women and the awful consequences to Blanche.

In the deadly still hours of night he would wake with a start, imagining he heard a sound in Blanche's room, and thither he would creep, holding his revolver ready for use, only to be greeted by the sight of his beautiful treasure peacefully asleep in the light of the low burning night lamp.

After one of these frights he went back to his chamber, and for the first time for years he knelt and tried to pray. His prayer was short, but he repeated it over and over with suppressed groans.

"Oh, God, in Thy vast goodness heap the punishment of the vilest of the damned upon me, but spare her—my child wife. Spare her, oh, God! Let not the consequence of my weakness fall on her. This is all I ask, pleading for just punishment for myself, but that she be spared from pain or unhappiness."

CHAPTER XV.

Twelve days had elapsed since he received that trans-Atlantic warning, and yet nothing had occurred to suggest that Jeanne had arrived. It was on the morning of the thirteenth day. He was alone in his study when the postman left a letter for Blanche. He took it, and as he placed it on the table where it would meet her eye when she came in, he noticed that the superscription was written in a very poor hand, as if it were executed by an illiterate person. It was a small circumstance, but Goddard's mind was inflamed with morbid fears of impending evil. He sat down at the fire and took up the morning paper, but the letter on the table held his attention as if it contained a warning from the Infinite.

He heard Blanche coming, and, raising the paper, he pretended to be absorbed in reading, though he was really watching her face as she advanced to the table and took up her letter. Goddard saw a look of wonderment pass over her face as she opened the envelope. A moment later he heard her cry out softly:

"Oh!"

He rose and went to her.

"What is it, darling?" he asked, his heart sinking.

"Oh, nothing of importance!" She put the letter into its envelope and held it down by her side. "It really doesn't amount to anything."

But despite this assurance there was still a shocked expression in her face.

He was actually afraid to pursue his questions further, being sure that it was some artifice of Jeanne's. Perhaps some proposal from some confederate of hers leading to a clandestine meeting. Goddard went back to his chair at the fire. His body felt as heavy and lifeless as stone as he sat down. She put her letter in her pocket and moved towards the door.

"Will you not let me see your letter, Blanche?" he found courage to ask.

"Not now, dear," she answered, and it seemed to him that her mind was far away.

"Will you not tell me its contents?"

"I'd really rather not, dear," she said, and without another word she turned from the room.

Unable to bear the suspense longer he followed to the door. He overheard Blanche giving an order to James in a low, guarded tone and stopped at the door just out of sight and just within earshot of the two.

"I want to go to the city," she was saying. "I shall walk down and catch the trolley car for the station. If my husband asks for me say I shall not be home for luncheon."

Desperately concerned, Maj. Goddard began to walk back and forth across the room. A moment later, hearing steps in the hall, he went to a window and looked out towards the road. He saw Blanche descend the steps, cloaked and gloved for her mysterious journey. He waited till she had turned the corner below the gates and then went out of the house and followed her, taking care to keep out of her view. He saw her get on the trolley car, and seeing that he had ample time to catch the train he waited for the next car and boarded it.

When he reached the station the train was almost due. He saw nothing of Blanche and supposed she was in the ladies' waiting-room. He went into the men's waiting-room, and when the train came he stood at a window and watched her pass out and get into one of the coaches. Watching his opportunity he glided through the crowd of bystanders and took a seat in the smoking-car in the front part of the train.

He had half an hour to reflect over Blanche's unusual conduct, but he was no nearer to understanding it when his train arrived at the New York station than when he had left Lyndhurst.

[To Be Continued.]

A NOTABLE DUEL IN 1836.

Two Slaves Fought in It, One Being Disabled by a Shot.

"From time to time," said an old resident, "I have noticed references to duels fought in the vicinity of Washington years ago, but the newspapers do not seem to know that one was fought between two colored men. I believe slaves, about 1836.

These were Jack Magruder and John Bell, who had married sisters and were both hired out by their masters to residents of Capitol Hill. In the course of time each became a father, and as every crow thinks his own coat the blackest, each father thought his child the smartest, and they often had words as to which was the finest baby.

"Finally they were about to fight. This occurred at a store, and the suggestion was made that as an insult had been given the aggrieved party should demand satisfaction on the field of honor and not resort to brute force when they could fight like gentlemen.

"The suggestion was adopted. Each chose a friend, and the arrangements being made the insult was wiped out with a little blood. The time set was four p. m.; place, the Leech pond, or the Tiber, above K street; weapons, guns; distance, 30 paces. It had been whispered among the boys that the event would occur and a number were there, I with others.

"Both showed up and exchanged fierce glances before being placed in position. Then the weapons were handed them and at the word, so promptly had they pulled the triggers, there was but one report, and each was puzzled to see that his opponent was standing unhurt, for they were good shots and each claimed to have taken deliberate aim, and were dissatisfied.

"The guns, which were loaded at first with a harmless substance, were passed to the seconds for recharging, and in one a few shots were dropped. Then at the word both fired, and a shot taking effect in the right wrist of one it stopped further shooting; each of the principals feeling elated that before witnesses they had not shown the white feather, but had acted as gentlemen.

"They retired from the field amid the plaudits of the spectators, the question as to who owned the smartest baby still undetermined."

A SUIT OF PAINT.

Primitive Apparel That Was Worn When Mankind Was in Its Infancy.

Writing "About Clothes" in St. Nicholas, George MacAdam sketches the pedigree of the full dress of the present day. Long, long ago, he says, when mankind was still in its babyhood, some hairy lord of creation happened to glance into a quiet pool, and saw mirrored in the water his own image. Comparing himself with the birds and beasts, he saw that he was plain and dingy; and he became envious of the brilliant-hued feathers of the birds, and the striped and spotted furs of the beasts. One day he discovered a bed of ocher. Sticking his finger into this bright-colored dirt, he saw that his finger became colored like the dirt. No doubt he stared in wonder for a long while at his strangely colored finger; and there gradually crept into his simple mind an idea which must have made him laugh for joy.

"Ha, ha!" he cried. "Here's my chance to give myself a new complexion—to make myself as bright and gaudy as Mother Nature has made the birds and the beasts."

So he dabbed himself from head to foot with different-colored ochers until he was bright and many-colored. This covering of ocher was the original ancestor of the clothes which you and I are wearing at the present day.

 part of the parquette. Three of the

The Profit in Hemp.

A. L. Mitchell is the first Bourbon county farmer to finish delivering the 1900 crop of hemp. This crop of hemp was bought by Chas. S. Brown & Bro. and brought Mr. Mitchell $9.50 per acre, yielding 162 lbs., and netting $44.36 per acre after paying all expenses.

Attempted Suicide.

N. A. Brown, a traveling salesman for an electrical novelty house of Chicago, attempted to end his earthly existence by way of the gas route at the Fordham Hotel yesterday morning.
 Mr. Brown, who is a very distinguished and handsome gentleman, registered at the Fordham on last Tuesday, and was assigned to a room. There was nothing in his actions during his stay which caused anyone connected with the hotel to have any suspicion of his motives.
 On Wednesday night he retired about ten o'clock. Yesterday morning the colored porter knocked at his door, and receiving no response, he opened the door and entered. Mr. Brown was lying upon the bed in his night clothes. A large piece of rubber hose had been connected to the gas burner, one end of it being tied so as to prevent a kink stopping the flow of gas. The other end was brought under the bed clothes and securely fastened in his mouth. He first having covered his head with a pillow.
 The porter, after having turned off the flow of gas, notified Landlord Connors, who hurriedly sent for Doctors Kenney and Sweeney. Upon their arrival they found Mr. Brown in the last stages of asphyxiation, but went to work heroically in an effort to save him. After three hours of constant work, which comprised artificial respiration, hypodermic injections and forced inhalation of prepared oxygen, the patient was enabled to breathe naturally.

He is not yet out of danger, as his system is saturated with the poisonous gas which may affect his heart and cause death. Doctors Kenney and Sweeney have provided him with a trained nurse, and are doing everything in their power
 to save his life.

The would-be suicide had packed his valise, sealed with wax and labeled it to his home. He also left the following letter:

PARIS, KY., Jan. 17, 1901.
 J. E. Linlinan,
 Battle Creek, Michigan.

DEAR SIR AND BRO:—In a strange place I take the life God has given me, and hoping that in leaving this world I will be received in the next. I wish you would attend to all arrangements, and kindly inform those I love, excepting Mrs. E. D., H. M., and C. W. Brown.

Yours in F. C. & B., N. A. Brown.
 Mr. Linlinan, who is a prominent member of the K. of P. of Battle Creek, Mich., was communicated with, and he telegraphed to do everything possible to save him and for his comfort. It is thought family trouble was the cause of the rash act.

At 10:30 last night Dr. Kenney reported the patient doing nicely, with chances good for his recovery.

Governor Mount Dead.

James A. Mount, who retired Monday at noon from the office of Governor of Indiana, died very suddenly Wednesday night at Indianapolis. See extended announcement in another column of this issue.

Paris' Government Building.

Chairman Mercer, of the Public and Grounds committee, will go to Washington, shortly, when it is expected he will turn up the committee bill. Paris will likely get an appropriation of at least $75,000 or $100,000 for a public building.
 This together with asphalt streets, and a new library will make quite an improvement in our city.

Christian Church Meeting.

The protracted meeting being conducted in this city by the Rev. Lloyd Darsie, is proving a success beyond expectations. Elder Darsie's sermons are very interesting and instructive, and the additions to the church, numbering 9 in all is a testimonial of his sterling worth. The quartette composed of Messrs. Frank Walker, Chas. Wynn, and Eld. Lloyd Darsie is rendering some very fine music. Mrs. Sutherland has rendered very sweet solos during the meeting. Elder Darsie's subject last night was "The Wreck of a Soul."
 Subject for to-night, "Christ Seeking the Lost."

Megibben vs. Bedford.

In the death of Edwin G. Bedford, of near this city, recalls one of the most famous suits ever fought in a Kentucky court. In 1874 Mr. Bedford and Mr. T.
 J. Megibben bought a short horn calf in New York, paying $25,000 for her.
 For a one-half interest in a bull calf from this cow Mr. Megibben paid $9,000. He claimed the bull was intent, which started the suit. The first trial in Bourbon resulted in a hung jury.
 In the second trial which occurred at Versailles, Megibben won the case, Bedford being required to pay back the $9,000 together with the costs of the suit, which amounted to more than $1,000. Bedford paid this but appealed the case and it lay before the Court of Appeals for about ten years. A decision was rendered requiring that the case be re-tried in the Woodford Circuit Court.
 In the meantime Mr. Megibben died and Mr. Bedford became insolvent. The second verdict at Versailles, while apparently favorable to Megib-ben, was a compromise whereby the Megibben estate was required to pay interest on $10,000 for ten years at ten per cent, making a total of $10,000. Some of the best legal talent in the country being employed to fight the case, among whom were, Col. W. C. P. Breckinridge, Gen. John B. Hinton, Hon. John G. Carlisle, and Hon. W. H. McMillan.

THE FAIR AND TURF.

 Raiser.

 farm to a Mr. Boone of Versailles.

The sheep lambing season is on and the weather couldn't be finer for the purpose. If the pleasant weather continues the lamb crop will no doubt be very much larger than for years.

Tilford B. Dickerson, the veteran horseman and trainer, died at Greensburg, Ind. of paralysis, at the age of 73 years. Mr. Dickerson for many years had his breeding stables at Versailles.

IMPROVED TELEPHONY

It is Possible to Telephone From New York to London.

The Method Explained by the Inventor, Who Has Sold His Interest to the Bell Telephone Co. For $500,000.

New York, Jan. 15.—According to the statements of Michael Idvorsky Pupin, adjunct professor of mechanics in Columbia university, the American Bell Telephone and Telegraph Co. has paid him, instead of the $200,000 as originally stated, nearly $500,000 for his recent invention of a system by which ocean telephony is made possible. This is in addition to the annual royalty of $15,000 a year during the life of the patents. Prof. Pupin returned to Columbia Sunday from an out-of-town trip, and was greatly surprised to learn that his invention had been made public. "The Bell Co. has tested the invention for six months," he said, "and express themselves as perfectly satisfied with it. The question of telephony is solved from a scientific standpoint, and there only remains the commercial question."

"There is no doubt that as soon as the financial part of the matter is settled it will be perfectly possible to telephone to San Francisco and London and to send cable messages to Europe at far less cost than at present."

Prof. Pupin said that it was almost impossible to give offhand an explanation that would not be too full of technicalities to be easily understood. "Briefly," the professor said, "the question had been to overcome resistance. In the present ocean cables the current has so many obstacles to battle with that it is comparatively slow in traveling, and becomes very weak before it reaches its destination 3,000 miles away."

Prof. Pupin after long experiments finally discovered that the insertion of light induction coils to every mile of wire would overcome this resistance, and messages could be sent over the cable at a much faster rate.

By this means every time the current begins to slacken its strength it will meet one of the coils, which will give it renewed impetus till it reaches the next coil, and so on. It is practically a relay method of supplying strength. The new system will require new cables, which will involve an enormous outlay. It is this feature only which is retarding the work at present.

The cables will require no greater strength in electricity and no different transmitters from those used now. His invention, when applied to land wires, he explained, will enable messages to be sent much further without relaying than at present, and will make conversation between New York and San Francisco easy.

Taylor and Charles Finley, former secretary of state of Kentucky, and that the expectation was that the Indiana governor would surrender the fugitives.

"I have nothing to say on that subject," said the governor firmly. "When the papers are on my desk I will give them the same consideration that I would any other document of importance. I have never said to any one what I would do in the matter."

Gov. Durbin refused to say whether he would make an effort to have Martin Kuhns, the desperado, turned over to the Ohio authorities.

Both men are now camping in the offices, each with a full force of deputies.

"I am so Glad you are well, Dear Sister."

This picture tells its own story of sisterly affection. The older girl, just budding into womanhood, has suffered greatly with those irregularities and menstrual difficulties which sap the life of so many young women.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound can always be relied upon to restore health to women who thus suffer. It is a sovereign cure for the worst forms of female complaints,—that bearing-down feeling, weak back, falling and displacement of the womb, inflammation of the ovaries, and all troubles of the uterus or womb. It dissolves and expels tumors from the uterus in the early stage of development and checks any tendency to cancerous humors. It subdues excitability, nervous prostration, and tones up the entire female system.

Could anything prove more clearly the efficiency of Mrs. Pinkham's Medicine than the following strong statement of Grace Stansbury?

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I was a sufferer from female weakness for about a year and a half. I have tried doctors and patent medicines, but nothing helped me. I underwent the horrors of local treatment, but received no benefit. My ailment was pronounced ulceration of the womb. I suffered from intense pains in the womb and ovaries, and the backache was dreadful. I had leucorrhoea in its worst form. Finally, I grew so weak I had to keep my bed. The pains were so hard as to almost cause spasms. When I could endure the pains no longer, I was given morphine. My memory grew short and I gave up all hope of getting well. Thus I dragged along. To please my sister I wrote to Mrs. Pinkham for advice. Her answer came, but meantime I was taken worse and was under the doctor's care for a while."

After reading Mrs. Pinkham's letter, I concluded to try her medicine. After taking two bottles I felt much better; but after using six bottles I was cured. All of my friends think my cure almost miraculous. I thank you very much for your timely advice and wish you prosperity in your noble work, for surely it is a blessing to have full and complete faith in the Lydia E. Pinkham Vegetable Compound."—GRACE B. STANSBURY, Herington, Kansas.

A SHAFT OF LIGHT.

Prof. Pickering Makes a Statement in Regard to the Alleged Signal From Mars.

Cambridge, Mass., Jan. 16.—Prof. Pickering, of the Harvard observatory, Tuesday said: "Early in December we received from the Lowell observatory in Arizona a telegram that a shaft of light had been seen to project from Mars (the Lowell observatory makes a specialty of Mars) lasting 70 minutes. I wired these facts to Europe and sent out neostyle copies through this country. The observer there is a careful, reliable man, and there is no reason to doubt but that the light existed. It was given as from a well-known geographical point of Mars. That was all. Now the story has gone the world over. In Europe it is stated that I have been in communication with Mars, and all sorts of exaggerations have sprung up. Whatever the light was we have no means of knowing. Whether it had intelligence or not no one can say. It is absolutely inexplicable."

MRS. NATION.

The Saloon Smasher, Who Was in Jail in Wichita, Kan., Released on Bond.

Wichita, Kan., Jan. 16.—Mrs. Nation, who was arrested some weeks ago for smashing the fixtures in a Wichita hotel bar, was released on bond Tuesday. After Mrs. Nation had been released by Judge Kirk she said:

"Thank you, judge, and God bless you."

Later she said to some of her friends: "I'll now begin to make things warm for the violators of the law. Other temperance women will assist me, and we will not rest until all the joints are closed."

The saloon men have their places guarded by "spotters," fearing that Mrs. Nation may do some damage before she leaves town.

FIGHT NEAR PANAMA.

Revolutionists Were Defeated, Losing Many Killed and Wounded—Two Chiefs Captured.

Colon, Colombia, Jan. 16 (via Galveston).—Gen. Alban attacked the revolutionary forces outside the city of Panama Saturday. The fighting was of short duration. The revolutionists were defeated, losing many killed and wounded, as well as two chiefs captured. The government forces sustained a loss of seven killed and wounded.

Panama, Jan. 16 (via Galveston, Tex.).—The arrival here of the United States cruiser Philadelphia has not caused any commotion. The official relations are very cordial and there are no unusual political comments. Everything is quiet here. Revolutionists have dispersed into the interior.

COL. M. S. QUAY.

After a Struggle For Years He Is Re-Elected United States Senator From Pennsylvania.

Harrisburg, Pa., Jan. 16.—After a memorable struggle, which had continued for several years, Col. M. S. Quay, regular republican nominee for United States senator, was elected Tuesday by the Pennsylvania legislature to fill the vacancy created by the expiration of his term on March 4, 1899. His combined vote in the senate and house was 130, or three more than the number necessary to choice. The house and senate met jointly at noon Wednesday, canvassed the vote and declared an election. Mr. Quay's commission had already been prepared and signed and he will take it to Washington Wednesday afternoon. A party of his friends will go with him to be present when he takes his seat in the senate Thursday.

THE BIG OIL WELL.

Excitement at Beaumont, Tex., on the Increase—Attempt to Stop the Flow of the Fluid.

Beaumont, Tex., Jan. 16.—The excitement here over the big oil well increases with each hour. There is no indication that the flow of oil from the geyser is diminishing, nor is there any change in the fluid. Capt. Lucas, on whose land the well is located, is busy making preparations for an attempt to stop the immense flow, and it will be made at once. The town continues to fill up, and the streets suggest a giant holiday event.

Boston, Jan. 16.—George Frisbie Hoar was re-elected Tuesday in both senate and house of the Massachusetts legislature to succeed himself in the United States for the term commencing March 4, 1901.

FIFTY-SIXTH CONGRESS.

Second Session.

Washington, Jan. 12.—Senate—Mr. Bacon (Ga.) made a vigorous attack on that portion of the army reorganization bill which confers upon the president discretionary power to increase the strength of the army to the maximum limit fixed by the bill. An amendment opening the way to the appointment of volunteer officers to grades as high as that of captain in the regular establishment was adopted. Just before adjournment Mr. Carter (Mont.) called up the bill appropriating the representatives of the United States among the several states. Without debate it was passed precisely as it came from the house.

House—Not since the 51st congress has the house passed as many private pension bills at a single sitting as it did Friday. In all 170 special pension bills were passed at Friday's session. The most important was one to increase the pension of Gen. Amieus V. Rice from $30 to $100. The senate had passed a bill to increase his pension to $60, and the house raised it to $100.

Washington, Jan. 14.—Senate—No legislative business of importance was transacted by the senate Saturday. The session was devoted to services held in memory of the late Senator Cushman K. Davis, of Minnesota. Mrs. Davis, accompanied by some friends, was in the executive gallery of the senate.

House—The house devoted Saturday to a continuation of the debate upon the river and harbor appropriation bill, which was interrupted Friday by private bill day. The main feature was an elaborate speech by Mr. Catchings (Miss.) in defense of the improvement of the Lower Mississippi river. Mr. Boering (Ky.) made an earnest plea for an appropriation for the Upper Cumberland river, which, notwithstanding it had been surveyed and declared navigable, had been ignored by the committee in making up its bill.

Washington, Jan. 15.—Senate—Senator Berry (Ark.) offered the following amendment as an additional section to the arm reorganization bill: "That within ten days after this bill shall become a law the president of the United States shall issue his proclamation, declaring that the United States hereby disclaims any disposition or intention to exercise sovereignty, jurisdiction or control over the Philippine islands, except for the pacification thereof; and asserts its determination, when that is accomplished, to leave the government and control of the islands to their people."

House—The house Monday postponed District of Columbia business until next Monday, and proceeded with the river and harbor bill. Good progress was made, 59 of the 97 pages of the bill being completed.

Washington, Jan. 16.—Senate—Some progress was made Tuesday by the senate in the consideration of the army reorganization bill. Mr. Bacon's amendment striking out of the bill the discretionary authority conferred upon the president to increase the size of the army was laid on the table by the decisive vote of 39 to 20.

House—The house spent another day on the river and harbor bill without completing it. Twenty-six pages were disposed of Tuesday. The senate resolution to appropriate $7,000 to enable the secretary of the senate to pay the expenses of the inauguration of the president and vice president, March 4, was taken up, and precipitated a lively discussion because it did not recognize the house as a participating factor in the inauguration ceremonies. The resolution was recommitted, with instructions to report back a resolution providing for inaugural ceremonies under the auspices of a joint committee of the senate and the house.

Washington, Jan. 16.—Senate—An agreement was reached Wednesday by which a vote will be taken upon the pending army reorganization bill on Friday at 4 p. m. Speeches in opposition to the bill were delivered by Mr. Allen (pop. Neb.), Mr. Teller (silver, Col.) and Mr. Butler (pop. N. C.). Mr. McMillen (rep. N. D.) made an argument in support of the measure. The feature of the debate was the denunciation of the practice of hazing at the West Point military academy.

House—The river and harbor appropriation bill was passed Wednesday by the house. The bill has been under consideration for over a week and has been assailed from many quarters, but its friends have stood solidly by it and defeated every amendment to which the river and harbor committee would not agree. The bill passed practically as it came from the committee. It carries slightly less than $50,000,000, of which $23,000,000 is in direct appropriations.

THE NEELY CASE.

Supreme Court Decides That the Prisoner Must Be Surrendered to the Cuban Authorities.

Washington, Jan. 15.—The United States supreme court Monday rendered a decision in the Neely extradition case. The report held that Neely was subject to extradition and must be surrendered to the Cuban authorities. The court held that Cuba is foreign territory, our only purpose in the war with Spain being to free the Cubans from Spanish domination. The decision was based upon the act of June 6, 1890, which act was held to be constitutional.

Students as Kidnapers.

A FITTING REBUKE.

Administered by a Heroic Messenger Boy to a Cowardly and Stingy Man.

There was a trifling fire in a west side street the other day which caused a good deal of excitement and incidentally gave a fat man a lesson in courtesy. The fire started in the apartments where the man and his mother lived. The man started about the time the fire did and got down four flights of stairs to the street before his mother knew what was up. When she discovered the fire she promptly fainted, says the New York Mail and Express.

Meanwhile the fat man stood in the street yelling: "Save my mother! Save my mother!" A messenger boy who was passing stopped, saw the smoke, ran up the stairs, aroused the woman and brought her out in safety. The neighbors cheered and the fat man looked uncomfortable.

"Here, boy," he whispered. "Here's a quarter for you." The boy's face expressed his disgust. "Aw, save it," he said, "and buy yourself some nerve food."

The crowd laughed, the fat man blushed and the boy went whistling down the street. He didn't know that he had been a hero, and the fat man felt himself a coward.

THEY DROP FROM THE SKY.

Shooting stars vary in weight from 30 grains to seven pounds.

In most cases of luminous meteors a train of light many miles in length is left behind.

One characteristic of meteoric stones is the fused black crust, like varnish, with which the surface is coated.

There are numerous records and stories in all ages and countries of the fall of stones from the sky; but until recent times they were treated by philosophers as instances of popular incredulity and superstition.

Meteoric stones have in times past been regarded with religious veneration. At Emesa, in Syria, the sun was worshipped under the form of a black stone, reported to have fallen from heaven. The great stone of the pyramid of Cholula, in Mexico, has a similar history.

From the height and apparent diameter, the actual diameter of the largest fireballs is estimated to vary from about 500 feet to half a mile. One or two instances are on record where the train of the fireball continued shining for an hour after the body disappeared.

Mrs. Frances M. Anderson

MISS FRANCES M. ANDERSON, daughter of HON. JUDGE ANDERSON, of Virginia, is at present in Washington, D. C., as Corresponding Secretary of the Higher Educational League, of that city. Cured of la grippe by Peruna.

MISS FRANCES M. ANDERSON, Corresponding Secretary of the Higher Educational League, writes from the "Astoria," Washington, D. C., the following:

"About two months ago I was taken very ill with la grippe and was obliged to go to bed. I took three bottles of Peruna with very beneficial results, and was able to leave my bed in a week and regained my usual strength very soon."

"I have nothing but praise for Peruna and recommend it to those similarly afflicted whenever I can."—Frances M. Anderson.

La grippe is, strictly speaking, epidemic catarrh—that is to say, a variety of acute catarrh which is so contagious and runs a course more or less definite, the same as scarlet fever, whooping cough, etc. During the acute stages of la grippe it is not a very fatal disease, but the condition in which it leaves the system has caused the death of a countless number.

I indeed nearly every person who has had la grippe within the last three years finds himself more or less deranged by the pernicious effects of this disease. The majority of those who have escaped death find life scarcely worth living.

If this vast multitude of people could only know with what certainty Peruna would relieve them of all the bad effects which la grippe has brought upon them, what an untold amount of suffering could be averted! Thousands have already heard how quickly this remedy will cure in these cases and have been saved; but tens of thousands have not yet heard, and continue to suffer on, dropping into the grave one by one. Peruna cures catarrh in all stages and varieties, whether acute or chronic, and is therefore the most effective remedy ever devised for removing all the derangements which follow la grippe.

Samuel M. York writes from Union Grove, Ala.: "Last week I was taken with la grippe and natural deafness. I wrote you for advice and followed your directions. After taking two bottles of Peruna I found myself well of la grippe, and my hearing was fully restored. My health is better than it has been in five years."

"My wife improved in health very much after taking Peruna."—Samuel M. York.

Miss Caroline J. Kahl, Otisco, Ind., writes as follows:

"Three years I had la grippe and pulmonary trouble. I was very sick. I had hemorrhages of the lungs nearly every day for a year, and three bottles of your Peruna cured me. The doctor said I had consumption. I am now in better health than I have been for many years."

"I highly recommend Peruna to all my neighbors and friends. Peruna is my favorite medicine. I shall always have Peruna in the house."—Miss Caroline J. Kahl.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

ECZEMA'S ITOH IS TORTURE.

Eczeema is caused by an acid humor in the blood coming in contact with the skin and producing great redness and inflammation; little pustular eruptions form and discharge a thin, sticky fluid, which dries and scales off; sometimes the skin is hard, dry and fissured. Eczeema in any form is a tormenting, stubborn disease, and the itching and burning at times are almost unbearable: the acid burning humor seems to ooze out and set the skin on fire. Salves, washes nor other external applications do any real good, for as long as the poison remains in the blood it will keep the skin irritated.

BAD FORM OF TETTER.

"For three years I had Tetters on my hands, which caused them to swell twice their natural size. Part of the time the disease was in the form of running sores, very painful, and causing me much discomfort. Four doctors said the Tetters had progressed too far to be cured, and they could not do anything for me. It took only three bottles of S. S. S. and was completely cured. This was fifteen years ago, and I have never since seen any sign of my old trouble."—Mrs. L. B. JACKSON, 144 McGee St., Kansas City, Mo.

S. S. S. neutralizes this acid poison, cools the blood and restores it to a healthy, natural state, and the rough, unhealthy skin becomes soft, smooth and clear.

SSS cures Tetters, Erysipelas, Psoriasis, Salt Rheum and all skin diseases due to a poisoned condition of the blood. Send for our book and write us about your case. Our physicians have made these diseases a life study, and can help you by their advice; we make no charge for this service. All correspondence is conducted in strictest confidence.

THE SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., ATLANTA, GA.

The merited reputation for curing piles, sores and skin disease acquired by DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve, has led to the making of worthless counterfeits. Be sure to get only DeWitt's Salve. W. T. Brooks.

To Cure a Cough

stop coughing as it irritates the lungs, and gives them no chance to heal. Foley's Honey and Tar cures without causing a strain in throwing off the phlegm like common cough expectorants. Clark & Kenney.

The most soothing, healing and antiseptic application ever devised is DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. It relieves at once and cures piles, sores, eczema and skin diseases. Beware of imitations. W. T. Brooks.

Mrs. Frances L. Sales of Missouri Valley, Ia., writes "I had severe kidney trouble for years, had tried five doctors without benefit, but three bottles of Foley's Kidney Care cured me. Clark & Kenney.
